LEAVES OF LAFAYETTE

*LAFAYETTE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL
ROANOKE, INDIANA*

It's the Little Things From the Smallest

BRYCE WHELCHER
5 ft. 1

Miss Christ teaches second year shorthand, the smallest class at Lafayette. Wally Beard, Barbara Richardson, and Donna Fairchild make up the class.

Construction on our new gymnasium began September 7, 1954. With the completion of the new gym Lafayette Central is looking forward to being hosts to neighboring schools whose facilities we have often used in the past.

That Count... to the Largest.

"Go team go" was the cry that arose from the cheering section on December 17 as Lafayette defeated Liberty Center 57 to 51.

Even though our school is small we have fifteen acres of ground on which there are three ball diamonds, a fifth of a mile track, tennis courts, outside basketball courts, and playground equipment for the grade children.

LARRY LEHMAN
6 ft. 2

Leona Schnepf, Rosalie Mongosa, and Duane Karr seem to be studying hard for a semester test. It looks like Sherman Meshberger has something else on his mind, doesn't it?

Herman Hammer may not be able to type sixty words a minute, but when Cleo Bermes had typewriter trouble, "fix-it" Herman put his mechanical mind to work.

Together

Even though our school is small, we have a varied curriculum. Language and social study courses, most of which are required, have enrollments of ninety-five and sixty-one respectively.

Speed and accuracy are well-worn words often heard by fifty-five students taking commercial courses.

Because we are a farming community, and many parents work in Fort Wayne factories, forty-five pupils chose vocational classes.

Science courses, including mathematics, biology, and chemistry were the choice of sixty-eight.

Marilyn Woodward is relating an amusing incident to Barbara Morris and Patty Rupert. With all girls in the class, there is never a dull moment.

Ruth Ann Gass is studying for a speech to give in English class. Study hall is a busy place with many students carrying four solids and a few carrying five.

We Study

In chemistry class Sandra Glass is demonstrating the method of collecting gases by displacement of water to a group of enthusiastic potential scientists.

In the High School Girls' Physical Education class volleyball is one of their main activities. During the year, though, they have also played softball, tennis, basketball, and deck tennis, and have done some tumbling.

Each Receives More Help

The boys in the Junior High Physical Education class play basketball, volleyball and other sports. But if you will pardon the pun, "they all have their ups and downs."

Larry Duhamell, Bob Ripley, and Nancy Hitzfield seem amused as Mr. Karns tells the biology class the odd sounding Latin names of these butterflies.

In art class Bud Kirchner, Bob Carroll, and Marian Topp are working on still life charcoal drawings, while Donna Gundy is thinking.

The first day of Driver Training Class brought forth many questions. Gloria Faust and Marian Topp are very concerned over the identity of a certain little gadget. Mr. Kline insisted that it was the carburetor.

In Small Classes Each Takes a Greater Part

These seventh graders, Mark Burley, Emilie Lovell, Dick Denney, and Jim Rupert, are studying the geographical features of Europe.

There are blunders in the numbers, but Miss Christ will straighten out Colleen Moore. I wonder if Gary Hall and Betty Reddin are having trouble with their lessons?

Wendell Parks, Mary Lou Johnson, and Janet Sink are finding that it is not so easy to solve for an unknown, which is just one of the many labors performed in algebra class.

These seniors, Nancy Bermes, Wally Beard, Janice Blauser, Bud Kirchner, and Bob Bradbury are learning in Government class the serious business of their privileges and obligations as citizens.

Some day, Tom Dahlkamp will follow in Herman Hammer's steps and make a fine table too. Shop is not as easy as people think; there is a lot of work connected with making a project.

Here Nancy Blauser, Russell Topp, Ronnie Ripley, and Marjorie May are discussing early France and locating on the map places which they have studied.

Is Bill Hitzfield studying English or reading jokes? The studious ones are Beverley Platt, Nancy Heller, Harold Mallo, and Dale Stephens.

Roger Sadler, Bonnie Baughman, and Mary Alice Chupp seem to be willing listeners to Larry Esterline as he explains a proposition.

History to most students is a very serious subject. Mrs. DeHaven is helping Barbara Wisel with a problem, while Betty Williams struggles along on her own. I really cannot understand what Lou Ann Matthias finds funny in a History book.

Teachers Know Individual Abilities

These girls practicing in Home Economics class now will never be "Brides that cook out of cans." In the process of learning, Janet Sparks and LEEANNE KRAMER have tried their luck. Peggy Bradbury and Louise Bradbury are the tasters.

The juniors presented Bolts and Nuts as their class play on October 15 and 16. The scene of this play is set in the spooky old mansion which Miss Rebecca Bolt inherited from her eccentric brother. She immediately starts on the pursuit of her hobby, psychoanalysis, by turning her home into a sanitarium for patients with phobias and nervous diseases. The "Nuts" then began to pour in and many cries arose due to a patient's thinking he is a noted doctor and Miss Bolts mistaking the famous doctor for a patient.

There is much excitement and rivalry during the noon hours, as the stage is filled with spectators and students playing off tournaments.

The girls' favorite noontime sport is volleyball. With four evenly divided teams the games are often very exciting.

Together We Have Fun

When the gym is not otherwise occupied students find entertainment in an occasional shuffleboard game.

Basketball is undoubtedly the most popular sport at Lafayette. The boys never tire of playing it and the girls enjoy watching it just as much.

Students wait for their report cards with mixed emotions. After the cards are passed out and discussed some show surprise, while others show disappointment.

Lockers serve a purpose other than the storage of books. Some lockers make a convenient leaning post for students talking, studying, or just relaxing.

Every morning before school starts groups of students can be found discussing the days problems and pet peeves.

Not only high school students use these stairs, in fact they are more worn by the passing of the grade students to and from the restrooms.

With People We Know

Mr. Karns, director of visual aids this year, orders films which provide a diversion as well as being educational.

This is a typical scene that takes place every noon as the students enjoy a good meal after a morning of hard work.

Every noon the students buy refreshments from this window. The seniors operate the store selling ice cream and candy.

At noon the teachers discuss the morning's activities over a cup of coffee and a hot meal.

Students who have free time just before lunch help in the cafeteria. Sherman is shown here emptying the garbage which is one of his daily tasks.

Vocal Groups

Leona Schnepf, Gloria Faust, Janice Blausen, and Nancy Blausen enjoy singing Barber Shop quartet numbers for musical entertainment at many school programs.

The Boys' Barber Shop quartet composed of Charles Johnson, Bob Hoopingarner, Gary Hall, and Kenny Edwards has furnished musical entertainment for many occasions this year.

These eighth grade girls seem to be enjoying Mr. Wetzel's piano playing. He never plays a song the same way twice.

The brass quartet is composed of Sandra Glass, Gloria Faust, Gary Hall, and Duane Karr. They have a good time trying to play Mr. Wetzel's arrangements.

LAFAYETTE CENTRAL SCHOOL
Roanoke, Indiana

Dear Friends,

The seniors have enjoyed working on this yearbook although it has been much work. We hope it will help you re-live the pleasant memories of the 1955 school year at Lafayette Central.

We wish to thank everyone who has helped to make this yearbook possible—our parents, teachers, friends, and those who have invested in this yearbook through advertising.

Your summer supplement will be mailed to you by June or July. The extra pages will make it possible to include pictures of events happening in the school year which could not otherwise be included. These supplementary pages will provide pictures and accounts of many of our activities happening too late in the school year to be included in the yearbook proper. Some of these events to be covered are the following: Athletic Banquet, Junior-Senior Banquet, Senior Play, Senior Trip, and Graduation.

We wish to thank everyone who has shown interest in our class and school by buying our book.
